Have you hit one of those roadblock in your family research? Are you just beginning to delve into your family's history? Are you at a loss of how to organize your materials? Do you know the best sites to use in your research?

On September 30 from 10 until noon at the Defiance Public Library, members of the DCGS will be available for personalized help. . Attendees will need to preregister with the library and send their specific questions. This will allow time for those helping to research the needed information.

Chapter Officers and Board Needed

No, it is not quite time to vote for chapter officers for the next year, but at the November chapter meeting, officers for the coming year will be voted upon.

The chapter really could use some "new blood" as the current officers have served for several/many years now. In addition to the usual officers-- president, vice-president, corresponding secretary, recording secretary, and treasurer-- the board also needs three trustees.

Please think about how YOU can help the chapter by volunteering for one of these positions of if you have any other talents to share, please let one of the current officers know.

The Power Dam Amusement Park - Generations of Family Fun

In addition to the Power Dam itself, there also was an amusement park located near the site of the dam. At the September 25th chapter meeting, Rhonda Caslet will tell of her experiences relating to the amusement park. Rhonda is asking that if you have any of your memories to share, that you send them to her at ohiostate93@ hotmail.com so that she can include the memories in her presentation.

Cemetery Walks

For several years now, there have been historic walks of the Riverside Cemetery in Defiance. These tours point our some of the notables who are buried in the cemeteries. More recently the Defiance Public Library provided a tour of the Farmer Cemetery in Farmer Ohio. Now on September 16th, the library will sponsor a tour of the Sherwood Cemetery in Sherwood. For more information contact the library.

Irish Immigration

Rhonda Casler, V-P of DCGS and Dr. Agnes Caldwell of Defiance College have been in discussion for a partnership for a unique college class on Irish genealogy and history. A class of 8-10 students will be learning about Irish immigrants, including those that settled in the Defiance County area.

DCGS volunteers will assist in teaching principles of genealogical research, highlights of the immigration and naturalization process, and where to find both local records and online resources. DC students in turn will use their newly learned skills to help others interested in family history.

At the end of the course, the DC students plan to take a research trip to Ireland.

Taylor Moyer

At the November chapter meeting, Taylor Moyer will speak on immigration and especially the importance of Ellis Island. Mr. Moyer is a nationally certified historic interpreter, a northwest Ohio historian, author, theatre director, and drumline instructor. Currently, Moyer is the senior humanities instructor at Toledo School for the Arts.

Mr. Moyer has taught course work in American History, World History, and psychology, He currently serves as the Historic Programs Manger for the Black Swamp Intertribal Foundation. He also is a former board member for the Fallen Timbers Battlefield Commission and Henry County Historical Society.

Some of Moyer's lectures and programs include the Eastern Woodland culture, death & dying, the Miami Erie Canal, The Underground Railroad, the American Civil War, museum practices, and much more.

Recently Taylor Moyer spoke at the city of Defiance's 200th bicentennial celebration during Art in the Park. He recounted the history and importance of the confluence of the Maumee and Auglaize Rivers. At that time, he discussed the importance this site held then and now for American native people and also during the 18th and early 19th centuries for the French, British and still today for many Americans.

June Happenings

Twenty members and guests attended the visitation to the Tuttle Museum in June. The group was divided into two with Judy Dally and Janice Bechtel providing leadership for the groups.

The docents explained how the museum came into being. "Andrew L. Tuttle, a lifelong resident of Defiance, Ohio, bequeathed his extensive collection of Native American artifacts, coins, documents, stamps, military memorabilia, and other artifacts, to the city of Defiance with the stipulation a museum would be established in his name. The City accepted the entire collection in 2003 and steps were taken to catalog and stabilize the collection. The Tuttle, as the museum has been nicknamed, officially opened to the public in May 2011.

"Although the museum bears Tuttle's name, the museum is dedicated to preserving the history of the city of Defiance and the surrounding area. The exhibits tell Defiance's story by highlighting the who, what, when, where and how. Therefore, the exhibit topics change from time to time to allow more of the story to be told."

from the museum site

"Andrew L. Tuttle is remembered in Defiance as a unique individual who had a passion for collecting fine objects, and who became the primary impetus and benefactor of the current Andrew L. Tuttle Memorial Museum.

"Andrew L. Tuttle was born in Defiance, Ohio on August 24, 1918. During his early years he lived at 211 East High Street, in Defiance, overlooking the Maumee River. Perhaps his father or grandfather sparked his interest in Native American tools and culture as they trekked the fields of Northwest Ohio looking for artifacts to collect.

"Andrew Tuttle graduated from Defiance High School in 1937 and served in the U.S.. Army from 1942 to 1945. He went on to earn a Bachelor of Science in business administration from Ohio State University and a master's degree in business from Harvard University in Cambridge.

"Many facets of Tuttle's life are a mystery, but he definitely was a world traveler whose excursions allowed him to expand his intriguing collection of coins, stamps, sculptures, Native American artifacts, and much more.

"Unfortunately, in 2003 Andrew L. Tuttle died in a car accident while returning home to Defiance from Florida. It was his final wish that his entire collection be a gift to the City of Defiance providing the city would establish a museum in his name. The Andrew L. Tuttle Memorial Museum opened proudly to the public in 2011."

The site of the museum is the former Home Savings & Loan which the city of Defiance purchased. The staff of the museum is one the payroll

April Chapter Happeneings

Early Sherwood Buildings

At the April chapter meeting, Dan Hasch, who has a deep interest in the history of the Village of Sherwood, chose to relate the histories of three buildings in the village of Sherwood.

Dan began with what until recently was known as the Moats Building. Until 1913 the prior building housed the McCord Brothers Implements. In 1916 the Moats Ford Sales came into being when Edwin Moats bought half of the McCord business and established the Moats Ford Sales, Inc. which celebrated in 2016 one hundred years of business in Sherwood. In 2019 the building was transformed into the railway themed Iron Horse Restaurant and Brewery. Dan showed a series of photos reflecting the changes in the building over the years.

The Sherwood House or Stone Hotel originally was a wooden structure probably built in the late 1870s or 1880s and was built and owned by a Defiance lawyer John Openlander. Later the hotel was sold to Moses Haver but the wooden structure was destroyed by fire in 1907. Leslie Stone from Farmer rebuilt the hotel as a more elaborate stone structure and added a restaurant and bar. Appropriately the building became known as the Stone Hotel. In 1930 the hotel was bought out by a concern who intended to pipe in the mineral (sulphur!) waters from the flowing spring in Crystal Park some distance away. This attempt failed, and the Knights of Pythias purchased the building which housed a hotel and also some private businesses and the town library. Since that time the building became a grocery, a restaurant, and then a bar. Recently, the building in disrepair was razed.

The history of the third building which now houses Kuhn Brothers Automotive is a very complex one. Located at the corner of Vine and Harrison Streets, the wooden structure contained three businesses but was destroyed by fire in 1904. The structures destroyed in that fire housed Newman's saloon, McFall and Norris's confectionary and Mrs. Kyle's millinery. At different times then the businesses located there were an implement sales, saloon, and garage. The second floor also housed a bowling alley and in a lower level Hackman's Bakery. In 1913 Sidney Decker and Charles Kellermyer bought the existing implement business. Later Deckers bought out their portion and they also sold Chevrolet cars. Eventually Deckers implements moved north to Route 18. Dan related the history of the building through photos and Sanborn Fire Insurance Maps;

The Moats Ford sales and services also was a place for Sherwood residents to keep their autos as individual garages had not been considered until later. Note the cars being stored in the background.

The Stone Hotel known for many years as the Sherwood House was a land mark in the Sherwood Village. It was razed in early 2023.

The Worhtington Project Chapter Presentation:

Thirty-three members and guests were present to hear Sarah Marshall from the Defiance Public Library who told of exploration of the Worthington Cemetery near Ayersville. Sarah explained how she became interested in the project and passed out the report of cemeteries in Defiance County from the WPA Investigation during the Roosevelt administration in 1936.

"The Worthington Colored Cemetery was named after a pioneer Negro on whose land the cemetery was laid out. It is the only exclusive cemetery for Negros in Defiance County... It was one of the earliest Negro cemeteries in the North" and was started with the burial of Anne Champ in 1855. It was abandoned about 1890 and later farmed over.

Sarah noted that KYK9 dogs had been used to "sniff out" probable grave sites, and these sites were then flagged. Sarah next played a recorded interview with Eric Hubbard, a student at the University of Pennsylvania. Eric is a grad student majoring in the analysis of archeological materials. Eric and a friend had access to Ground Penetrating Radar from his university to use for testing at the Worthington site.

In the recording, Eric explained how the GPS was used, and also noted its limitations. Since the bodies in the Worthington Cemetery were probably buried either in wooden coffins or in cloth shrouds, decomposition would cause no clear differentiation with the soils. He noted that the cooperation with the KYK9 dogs and the GPR would be quite beneficial in most such circumstances. He also noted that the next step would be peeling back the layers of soil over the grave sites, but this would need the permission of the descendants.

Sarah noted that the investigation of the cemetery has had the goal of bringing honor and remembrance for the cemetery and those buried there. Sarah also announced that the library has applied for an Ohio Historical Marker which would be placed at the edge of the cemetery noting its historical significance.

The Works Progress Administration was formed by Franklin Delano Roosevelt in reaction to the Great Depression as a means of employing Americans and stimulating the economy. Established in 1935, one of the projects of the W.P.A. was to conduct Historical Records Surveys, one of which included finding information on cemeteries and the graves of veterans. The records for Defiance County were compiled about 1936. The following is the survey for the Worthington Cemetery

C. Cadwallader. C. Gish. Reporters.

Topic #624.
Defiance County.
District #13.
Cemeteries.

1. Name of cemetery:

Worthington Colored Cemetery.

The old Negro cemetery, also in olden times called The Worthington cemetery, after an old pioneer colored man who even before the Civil War owned a section of land in this township. The cemetery was built on his land for his people, no one but colored persons were ever buried here. Most of them were freed negroes before the war. It is the only colored cemetery in Defiance County.

2. Location; how reached:

Located on the Jennie Watson farm, one quarter mile east of state route #15 on a mud road, two miles south of the city limits of Defiance, Ohio and in section seven Highland Township. It is forty rods back off this mud road to the north almost in the center of a wheat field.

3. Name and address of caretaker:

None, nor has there been any for forty years.

4. General description, size, appearance, etc:

This graveyard should have a historical value at least to the Negroid people, as it is one of the first negro cemeteries in the north. It was started in 1855, before the Civil War and was abandoned in 1883 after the death of Worthington the negro man on whose farm it rested. The land is now owned by Jennie Watson and the field last year was in wheat, part of the graves are covered with a straw stack and most of the markers are buried in the ground. We had to dig some of them out to get any names and possibly we did not get the oldest, at one time there were supposed to be fifty or more graves, however we found only about a dozen stones. All of these but one were old white slab markets, one was a pedestal type himself. There is no fence around the place and nothing to mark it, we found it only through the courtesy of Mr. Al. Logan of Ayresville, Highland Township and L.E. Myres, R.R. #8, Defiance, Ohio, who told us to be sure and get it.

5. Name and date of first burialrecorded:

Anney Champ, born in 1781 and died in 1855, was the oldest marker we fould fine and we dug this one up from under the ground.

6. Names of important people buried there:

The Worthingtons, early negro settlers in Defiance County, present living relatives unknown are the most important people. Mr. Myres the authority on this article can remember him, he died in around 1890, his wife in 1883, his wife's name was Lizzie but no one can remember his given name, and it was not marked on his stone, he always went by the name of "Old Darkey Worthington." At one time he was very wealthy, he had several childred, but where abouts of the are unknown.

7. Markers of unusual appearance:

White stone slabs, one pedestal marker, none unusual.

8. Unusual Epitaphs:

None.

9. Is cemetery used for new burials?

This graveyard has not been used since 1890 and is almost forgotten except by old timers of this beighborhood. There is only one colored man in Highland Township today and he is not related to anyone buried in Worthington Cemetery.

Consultants:

L.E. Myres, R.R. #8, Defiance, Ohio.

Al. Logan. Ayresville Village, Defiance County.

Defiance County Civil War Service

Recently, Caroll Monroe of Lansing, Michigan, submitted the names of three Civil War Veterans for the chapter's Certificate. To qualify the veteran (either Union or Confederate) should be one of the following relating to Defiance County: birth, residence, burial, or service unit.

William A. Monroe

William A. Monroe served with Company D of the 155th Regiment Indiana Volunteers. He served from 18 April 1865 - 4 august 1865. He was born in 1832 in Lorain County, Ohio, to Younglove and Phoebe Monroe. William died 20 April 1919 in Hicksville. He is buried in Forest Home Cemetery.

From William's Obituary: "After an illness due to the infirmities of old age, William Monroe passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Hiram Hart. MR. Monroe was an early settler of this vicinity having lived for several years on a farm five miles west of Hicksville where he reared his family.

"About thirty-five years ago he moved to Hicksville where he had since resided. He was a soldier of the Civil War and a member of the GAR post of Hicksville. HE is survived by the following children: Albert, Henry, George, Hanford, and Mrs. Hiam Hart of this place, and Manford of Fort Wyane. Funeral service were conducted by Rev.. C. A. Moore."

Caroll noted that in 1902 William's second great-grandson, Hanford B. Monroe, will marry Adam Whitman's second great-granddaughter Mabel H. Whitman

Adam Whitman

Adam Whitman served with Company B of the 22nd Regiment Indiana Volunteers from 21 November 1864 to 24 July 1865. He was born in German on 7 December 1845 and died in Hicksville on 8 January 1912.

From Adam's obituary: Adam was born in German and early in life came to America. Her served in the Civil War when he was only 19 and a few years later married Catherine Steinhilber in 1869 with whom he had four sons and three daughters. Some of the children were John Frederick, Adrian Adam, Elizabeth Whitman Steele, George Washington Whitman, and Mable Whitman Monroe.

He was a member of the United Brethern Church at West Milford near his farm. He was a member of the I. Donafin Post of the GAR. He is buried in Forest Home Cemetery in Hicksville.

John W. Blythe

John W. Blythe Served with Company G of the 104th Regiment of the Ohio Volunteer Army. He served from 12 August 1862 to 17 June 1865. John was born in Columbus, Ohio, about 1835. He died 2 June 1881 and is buried in Forest Home Cemetery in Hicksville.

From the 'Brief History of the 104th Volunteer Infantry and Biographies":

While serving in May 1863 John was thrown from a "saddle Mule," then dragged "for some distance" and then run over by a wagon wheel crushing his shoulder and collar bone. At the conclusion of the war he applied for pension based upon the injuries sustained. After the war John resided in Allen County, Indiana where he was a farmer. By 1880 according to the census he was residing in Hicksville with an occupation as "laborer in a stove factory." His wife was listed as Emily, and John is listed as a charter member of the Donafin Post, No. 52 GAR which was organized in April 1881.

Regimental Information: "The 104th was formed in direct response to Lincoln's July 1, 1862 for 300,000 troops. Volunteers were formally sworn into service in August, 1862.
